Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from The Real Chickamauga Even Richmond was but an outpost until the success of the Union armies in the center of the Confederacy left the legions of Lee once expelled from Richmond literally nowhere else to go. The campaign of Chickamauga was directed against a city which was the very key to the interior of the Confederacy, the crossing point of its greatest lines of railroad from all directions, the citidal of Georgia and the whole interior South. So long as Chattanooga remained in Confederate hands the enemy s power was practically unbroken, the great slave empire untouched. General Loring, one of the most sagacious of all the officers that wore the gray, said to the writer of this article, near the close of the war and before he had heard of the surrender at Appomattox: Our cause is probably lost, but your temporary victories up to the latter part of 1863 had little to do with it. Not a man in the Southern Confederacy felt that you had really accomplished anything until Chattanooga fell. You do not mean to say, general, that Vicksburg and Gettysburg were nothing. The loss of Vicksburg, he replied, weakened our prestige, contracted our territory, and practically expelled us from the Mississippi River, but it left the body of our power unharmed. As to Gettysburg, that was an experiment; if we had won that battle the government at Washington would, perhaps, have tendered peace with a recognition of the Confederacy. Our loss of it, except that we could less easily spare the slaughter of veteran soldiers than you could, left us just where we were. But in the latter part of...
